

[053] ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to novel dimethicone copolyol ester compounds bearing a fluoro group attached through a hydrophobic ester linkage to silicon. This invention also relates a series of such products having differing solubility , silicone fluoro and fatty soluble groups. By careful selection of the compounds so constructed, very efficient couplers that minimize syneresis.